

HUNTER'S GUILD

FALCONER PLAYERS

The following Falconer models may play for the Hunter's Guild:

MATAAGI

MINERVA

GUILD RULE

Trap Markers

Trap markers have a 30 mm base. A player may have up to five friendly trap markers on the pitch at once. When an enemy model moves within 1" of a friendly trap marker, the trap marker is removed from the pitch and the enemy model suffers the snared condition and 1 DMG.

HUNTER'S GUILD

The Hunter's Guild is one of the oldest Guilds out there, been plying their trade for hundreds of years. They just don't have Guild houses like anyone else, nor trade their services in the cities. And until now, they've never had a Guild Ball team neither.

Your average Hunter is a real strange individual. They believe in the old gods, the Moon Goddess and Sun Father; the whole Guild is built around their worship. The Moon Goddess is the mistress o' the hunt, the one they all offer their praises to for their work. She blesses them to steal from the Sun Father, who nurtures the world.

They're dangerous, young blood. Every single one of them bears respecting. Each has lived a life of tracking, pursuing, and killing beasts far more feral and dangerous than you or I have ever seen. They bring a different set o' skills to the game, something we've never seen before. I won't say that any of us were looking in their direction and dreading this day, because we weren't.

But believe me; we should have remembered them and their old ways, young blood, because now they're here to stay.

—Greyscales, Fisherman's Guild Vice Captain
